"Taking Quality To A New Level...Worldwide"

Product, Procedure and Information Resource

Tecvac, Inc.'s professional staff combines the ingenuity, technology, and objectivity needed in support of your efforts to provide professional expertise to your clients. Large or small, few other firms can equal our depth and breadth of experience, particularly in the specialized repair of concrete, masonry and stone.

We can furnish you with the tools, knowledge, and skills to respond confidently to the uncertainties of today's volatile and increasingly competitive market, regulatory environment, and strict operating conditions.

We are a comprehensive resource: a spectrum of experts, services, skills, industry experience, and materials knowledge that can be focused on discrete repair projects and problems, broad investigative studies, or continuing as-needed services. Our exclusive, vacuum processes draw upon state-of-the-art, widely applied experience and field tested resources to provide you the most complete and permanent solution for structural repairs, concrete restoration, and an array of other problems associated with concrete, masonry and stone. We tailor our services to each client's special requirements and you can expect a close and attentive involvement. Most importantly, you can expect our seasoned experts will bring a store of pick and shovel savvy that makes the difference between a plausible theory and a workable, successfully implemented recommendation.

We invite you to call in our professional team of experts to assist you in your next rehabilitation and restoration project. The essential knowledge we provide can assist you in determining the present stage and actual source of the problem or failure...this vital information will guide your recommendation to treat the cause...rather than the symptom.
